Moved by Dr. Fokins that Mr. Hill act as a committee to make all necessary arrangements for the drilling of a well on the new school site at Irma.

Moved by Mrs. McLeod that there be provision for replacement graveling of considerable mileage.

The program also provides for first course graveling of 48 miles of main and secondary highways. There also is provision for replacement graveling of considerable mileage.

The projects to be undertaken in the current year also include asphaltic or hard surfacing of 48 miles of main highways. More than 250 miles will be given a "seal coat" which is a final stage in this type of surfacing.

On the whole, a big program of road improvements will be undertaken in all parts of the province as the provincial authorities prepare for still heavier traffic demands this year.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McLeod wish to take this opportunity to thank the many friends for their good wishes, also the lovely gifts and to all those who assisted upon the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Tolmie Hafso Wedding Of Interest Here

Baskets of full-blown pink and white peonies decorated Central Lutheran Church, Wed. June 28, for the marriage of Miss Stella Hafso, daughter of Mrs. H. Lund of Viking, and Mr. Roy Tolmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Tolmie of Wainwright.

Rev. T. W. Maekstad performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Chris Wollen, the bride wore a gown of traditional white satin, styled with high neckline and lily-pond sleeves. Her chapel-length veil was gathered to a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of Tallman roses and sweet peas. Her only jewelry was a gold necklace, gift from the groom.

Attending her was Miss Nellie Wollen, wearing a rose taffeta frock with matching hat. Her bouquet was of peonies and lilies.

Mr. Orlando Hafso, brother of the bride, was best man, and ushering the guests to their seats were Mr. Jack Martin and Mr. Robert Cummins.

Mr. Gordon Hafso, of Viking, played the music for the wedding and while the register was being signed Mrs. H. Lefsrud of Viking sang "Blessed."

Following the ceremony a reception for 25 guests was held at the Corona Hotel where Mrs. Lund, mother of the bride, was in a black crepe dress, with black and white accessories and corsage of red roses.

Decorating the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked with pink and white tapers.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. G. E. Stewart, and reception guests were entertained with piano selections by Mr. Gordon Hafso.

Leaving on a motor trip to Banff and Jasper, the bride travelled in a teal blue gabardine suit, with navy blue picture hat and accessories. On their return the couple will make their home in Edmonton.

Wedding guests from out of town included: Mr. and Mrs. H. Lund, Mr. O. Hafso, Mr. C. Wollen, Mr. and Mrs. W. Combs, Mrs. S. Lefsrud, Miss Mary Blavik, Miss G. Hennepin, Miss L. Hafso, Miss P. Stenmark, Mrs. L. Lofgren, Mr. Gordon Hafso, Mr. Herman Hafso, and Mr. Robert Thunell, all of Viking; Mr. J. Tolmie of Wainwright; Mr. and Mrs. O. Hogen of Gilboist; Mr. and Mrs. E. Canadians in general voiced their enthusiastic endorsement of the Liberal party headed by Mr. St. Laurent, when they went to the polls on Monday.

Early returns indicate that the government which held power all during the war years had gained even greater strength, and their increased popularity was evident in all provinces.

The C.C.F., whose representation in the house was cut by more than 50 percent, lost out to Liberals in many Saskatchewan ridings, and in Alberta there were minor losses by the Social Crediters.

Battle River riding made no change, re-electing Robert Fair, who has been their representative for the past two terms by a tidy margin.

In the house at its peroration the Liberals held 125 seats; Conservatives 69; C.C.F. 33; Social Credit 12 and others 5, with one vacancy.

At time of writing the figures indicate that the Liberals will enjoy a representation of about 199 members, the Progressive-Conservatives 41, the C.C.F. 13 and the Social Crediters 16, with a number of seats yet undecided.

(The increase in the number of seats is due to Newfoundland joining the Dominion.)

No Need To Undress For X-Ray

Everyone In District Is Urged To Visit TB Clinic

He Also Ran

Col. Geo. Drew

Every man, woman and child in the Wainwright area will be given the opportunity of safeguarding his health by having a free chest X-ray when a community X-ray survey begins here in August. The survey will be conducted by the Board of Trade under the auspices of the Department of Health and the Alberta Tuberculosis Association.

The announcement was made by Dr. J. E. Bradley who expressed the hope that every citizen of Wainwright would take advantage of this special opportunity.

In order that every Wainwright citizen may be registered for the survey, a house to house canvass will be made by members of Canadian Red Cross and F.W.U.A., covering a 21 day period before the actual survey gets underway. The clinic will be held in the R.O.C.F. building and will be open on dates to be announced later.

An X-ray will take only a few moments of each person's time. Dr. Bradley pointed out that the most up-to-date mobile equipment, which uses 70 mm. film and can handle 80 persons an hour, will be used. These miniature plates, when read by experts, are just as accurate as full-size X-rays. A nurse will be in attendance. X-rays are taken through the clothing making it unnecessary to undress.

Tuberculosis of the lungs, if found in the early stage and treated is almost always completely curable. Nevertheless, nearly as many Canadians die from this disease during the past year as killed by enemy action. More persons die from tuberculosis in Alberta than from all other infectious diseases combined.

Further plans regarding the Wainwright District survey will be announced as they are completed. In the meantime, public health officials are most anxious that everyone give the project their whole-hearted cooperation. With this cooperation they are convinced that Wainwright will be well in the forefront of Alberta communities in the prevention of tuberculosis.

WAINWRIGHT TO HAVE NEW SCHOOL

While the above heading merely tells what everyone already knows, it will perhaps be interesting to realize that the plans for the new school at Wainwright have been receiving the close attention of Divisional officials and the local board, with the result that they have been sent back to Edmonton for such revisions as have been deemed desirable.

Two distinctly different plans have been proposed, and after careful consideration of their comparative virtues and failings, your representatives have unanimously agreed on a revised setup which should be well suited to the needs of the district. In coming to their conclusions, (not quite final till the new plans return from the architect), the officials and board have borne in mind a number of factors. Among these are: cost, appearance, facilities for addition if and when needed, and general convenience of layout.

It must be pointed out that already applications from country schools for bussing to Wainwright indicate that in the future school population here will increase to a point where additional rooms beyond those now required will be in operation.

Briefly, the plan is to make an L-shaped addition to the present High School building, extending southward and westward. The extension would reach southward for about 103 feet and westward for a total length of 150 feet. The plan would provide nine spacious and well lighted classrooms, a good sized auditorium-gymnasium, science room, and all the other facilities necessary in a modern school. The entrance to the school would face eighth avenue. In order to clear the approach to the new school the old brick "shop" building would be demolished.

The building would house grades one to nine, while the high school would be moved into the brick building which now houses the public school.

We like the headline "Alberta Farmer Gets $500 Fine". Most people would have to pay a fine, but it just goes to show how farmers are favored these days.—Nanton News.

GERMANY IS STILL A POWER

The ending of the Berlin Blockade brings to the fore the question of Germany and world markets. Without question Germany will soon be seeking ways of re-entry into world commerce and will seek western capital for that purpose. Recent figures indicate that production in Germany is on the upswing. The fact is that the Second World War did not smash Germany as a world and industrial power. It would be short sighted to expect that Germany should be kept in an impoverished condition. Nevertheless, in the optimism of the moment, it should never be forgotten that twice in one generation industrial Germany plunged the world into war.—Clareholm Local Press.

The young lady waited patiently in the drugstore until the pharmacist was free to wait on her. "What will it be?" he asked.

"I wonder," she asked, "if you'd read this letter from my fiancé for me? He's a doctor!"

IT'S SO EASY

It's just too easy for an error to creep into a newspaper. When the article was brought in to us about the T.B. clinic last week we were informed that it would be UNNECESSARY for those coming to the clinic to undress. However the text brought to us stated otherwise. Not reading over the text we failed to notice the error until after the paper was printed. We therefore hasten to assure all our readers that it WILL NOT BE NECESSARY for them to undress in order have their chest X-ray taken when the clinic comes around.

ATOMIC WAR

Many people don't believe that there will be an atomic war in the same way as the old lady, when queried as to whether or not she believed in ghosts, said with chattering teeth, "No, I don't believe in them, but I'm terribly afraid of them." By the way of reassuring themselves they write or talk about the destruction which would be wrought and the impossibility of survival and drawing their conclusions from the fact that poison gas was not used in World War II decide that atomic war can't happen because no nation would dare make use of atomic energy for war because of the devastation that would make it impossible to hold or organize conquered territory, and because of the possible destruction of the country itself.

So they say, in effect, that there are no ghosts. However atomic energy has already been used in warfare. It was on a small scale but the users of the weapon and their adherents excused the use of it because it shortened a war that might have dragged on for another year. Suppose some nation started a war on that basis; it would make it a short war and congratulate itself on making it a nice clean war. Nations as well as individuals can find reasons for the things they do. We are inclined to think that atomic war is no more impossible than war with bows and arrows as weapons, war with elephants, wars with cannon balls, wars with tanks of poison gas.—Nanton News.

We've Been Thinking

H. S. Tenney

A year ago last winter I sat in the public gallery of the Alberta Legislative Assembly on the afternoon of the day before the Assembly adjourned. I was very surprised to hear the introduction of a bill that, to me, was one of such importance as to deserve a fuller discussion than it was then possible to give. The members of the Legislature, on all sides of the House, were equally surprised. The bill provided that no school board could requisition from municipal councils an amount of money in excess of ten per cent more than had been granted in the previous year. Provision was made for an appeal to the Minister. There was much opposition to the bill, even from the ranks of the government supporters. After a time the Premier and the Minister of Education went into a building. The result was an amendment to the bill that would change ten per cent to twenty per cent. At that point the government cracked the whip, the followers fell in line, and the bill passed easily.

One did not require superior mental power to see in this the hand of the Department of Municipal Affairs. Municipal authorities had become alarmed at the steadily rising costs of education, and as they wielded greater political power than did educational authorities, were successful in doing something about it.

And so the people's representatives, elected by democratic process to handle the educational matters in the school divisions, found that their hands were tied. It is certainly not very probable that a school division will increase its expenditures more than twenty per cent in any one year, but the principle that those elected to do a different job is decidedly wrong. I will admit that there is something wrong with a system of government in which one elected group must collect enough money in taxes to satisfy the demands of another elected group; it is certainly not more cooked than a system that gives to those elected to build roads and bridges the right to say how much those elected to provide educational facilities may spend.

And now it is rumored that the government is considering a plan of consolidation whereby the boundaries of municipalities shall be co-terminus with the boundaries of school divisions. There shall be but one municipal council to administer all matters relating to education. Certain districts will be selected for experimental purposes, just as the large school divisions were first introduced.

I see in this proposed plan a very great danger to education unless provision is made to have on the municipal council an education committee composed of people whose interests and experiences have especially fitted them for the position. Today, presumably, we elect to school boards those whom we think are particularly qualified for the duties of administering school affairs; just as we elect to municipal councils those who are qualified to make decisions respecting roads, water control, etc. We know we can get better service from public officials if they are to some extent specialists or are given the opportunity of devoting a greater share of time and interests to one or few things.

This, we often hear, is an age of specialization. Yet how often we find that the novice tries to make expert decisions! That is one of the great weaknesses of democracy. The farmer thinks he knows how to reform the banking system; the retailer knows just what is wrong with the Wheat Board; the school teacher is ready to reform the whole monetary system. But what is particularly alarming to me is that nearly everybody and his dog knows just what to do with our schools, and is prepared to offer helpful advice, given on agreement, a shudder to think of those that might stand for election to the proposed "consolidated" municipal councils and be given the responsibility of running our schools. They might be tax experts; they might be most excellent farmers with a sound understanding of the farmers' problems; but would they also be good educational administrators?

Education deserves the best administration available. Let us not exchange our present system, deficient as it might be, for one which places control of the schools in the hands of "jacks-of-all-trades."

SAVE DROWNING VICTIMS!

All drowning fatalities are not necessarily due only to carelessness on the part of the victims, it is stated by Dr. Gordon Bates, of Toronto, in an editorial in the current issue of HEALTH magazine of the Health League of Canada. Too frequently there is lack of knowledge as to proper means of artificial respiration on the part of onlookers anxious to help.

Dr. Bates is General Director of the Health League of Canada and editor of HEALTH magazine. The editorial goes on to say: "Artificial respiration should always be immediate and continuously applied by persons with some knowledge of the procedure. There are misapprehensions, however, which in some cases have led to tragedy. In spite of widespread publicity about ten years ago in the Canadian press, there still remains in the minds of many the idea that a person who has been unconscious for more than a few minutes cannot be revived by artificial respiration. This is not true. There have been instances of individuals who have been revived after having been as long as half an hour in the water."

"A committee of the Health League of Canada under the leadership of the late Sir Frederick Banting, in 1933 issued a statement to the effect that artificial respiration should be kept

THE THUNDER OF SILENCE

Many well-intentioned men and women tend to confuse the inclination to do well with the ability to do well. So they see in all criticism or opposition a challenge to the good they propose.

A few people will question the good intent of the present leaders of Britain. But is that quite good enough? In the beginning Mussolini genuinely believed that he was working for the people's good. In the beginning Hitler was a challenge to forces that he believed were destroying his people. In the beginning Stalin and his predecessors were only defining the view of socialism. A good initial intent is not absolute from all evil.

This is the possible danger of all governments; but, particularly, it is the danger of persons or governments that adopt a doctrinaire attitude to political problems. They accept their own good intent and are unwilling to make allowance for other points of view or varying circumstances. Soon they cease to think with people, and determine to think for them.

This condition is all too evident in Britain at the moment. As the government's theories falter, it becomes the more aggressively active, the less tolerant of criticism. British businessmen who, under other governments, were active, progressive and highly vocal have become tongue-tied under the growing threat of nationalization. They have recognized that former governments were attentive to the protests of people and industry well knowing that their political life depended on it. They had no theoretical axes to grind. They were not protecting a social ideology. They were governing people, under the people's direction. They had to know what the people wanted and make the necessary adjustments before some other party did it in their stead. They did not have a background idea that they considered more important than the popular will. But now it is not the will of the people that dominates, it is a social theory. Businessmen have come to know well the dangers of disagreement, the importance of "keeping in" with the government. Only a few voices have been raised even to say that the Federation of British Industries—the liaison force between government and industry—has been lacking courage to question, sharply, government policy, in the face of tacit threats of further restrictions or further nationalization. In their silence these British businessmen, interested men, hesitate to protest openly and hotly every invasion of their normal rights. It is time to beware. In their silence there is a threat to all liberty. It is the thundering silence of surrender.

which could be called of any value. His function, so badly abused by Mr. Teskey's thoughts, the attendance was away above that of any other function. That, "Pro-Prom", was in the Meads one of which so many students speak so highly.

The introduction of liquor into Mr. Teskey's article disgusted me. It seemed so unnecessary. Following in inquiry, I find that there never has been a liquor problem at the Proms which the students themselves could not handle. Once a source of trouble kindred by a "stag" couple who attempted to enter. A "stag" pair that had "matured" too rapidly. Even so, it was quickly extinguished.

Mr. Teskey, as a servant of what he wishes to be known as a profession, is supposed to be demonstrating to us the paths of life leading to that glorious mature state. Yet, he seems surprised that we lose our coolness and act so mature on this occasion. I would suggest that he think a little longer as I feel that we have acted in a mature manner at least once in a while beyond the Prom. We mature too fast and he attempts to lead us to mature. A troublesome state of balance wouldn't you say. Think a little longer sir. Nevertheless, Mr. Teskey should be congratulated on preceding articles. They showed us with a multitude of advantageous ideas. All we need now is someone to carry at least one to a state of fact from the dubious realm of idea.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor for your time, I remain an admirer of "Pro-Prom".

HARVEST WORKERS FOR ONTARIO

This year some 400 men will be sent to Ontario from Alberta to help with the Ontario haying and harvesting. This excursion is for men between the ages of 18 and 30, men who are physically fit and able and willing to do farm work. Only men that can be spared from their present jobs will be allowed to go.

Cost of excursion is $10.00 going to Ontario and $12.50 return, the balance of the transportation being provided by warrant. Workers are expected to take employment for at least 4 weeks, there being no available return under warrant till August 23rd.

24-D SPRAYING

There are quite a few spray rigs operating in this district now spraying mainly for Stink Weed and Mustards. In hot dry weather like this the kill of weeds is likely to be small. Unless weed growth is rapid the 24-D will not reach properly. Little or no kill of perennial weeds can be obtained at this time.

THE GOOD EARTH

We all agree that continual cropping must reduce soil fertility but do we generally recognize that after several years the root fibre has disappeared from the soil. It is this decaying vegetable matter which holds moisture and when it is gone a soil dries out within a few days after a heavy rain. There are two ways to add fibre to the soil, first by growing forage crops and second by applying harvard manure. Both methods will pay big dividends.

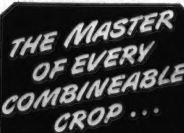

LIVESTOCK NUMBERS

GAIN IN EUROPE
Livestock numbers in Europe are slowly climbing back to more normal figures after the heavy reduction during the war. But even when they reach pre-war levels they can go well beyond, as the population of Continental Europe has increased some four per cent in the last decade, and it is hoped that nutritional standards may be higher in the future.

Feed has become more plentiful in recent years, particularly in such countries as France and Belgium, which are not so dependent on imported feed-stuffs as Holland and Denmark. Increasing numbers of young stock are now being retained for slaughter to prevent requisition by the Germans, and since the war ended, the demand for meat often over-rules the wiser long-term plan of holding off the market, suitable breeding animals.

Indication of the progress made is shown in the numbers of livestock in 1948 and 1938, in France, Belgium, Holland and Denmark. Total numbers of cattle in these countries at 22.4 million head in 1948, are about one million short of the 1938 figures. Swine at 10.3 million are still short of the 1938 figures by about 2.5 million, sheep (excluding Belgium, for which country no figures are available for 1938) at 8.3 million are still 2.4 million below the 1938 population. Horses show a decrease in the ten years of nearly half-a-million, a condition which may continue with the more extensive use of mechanical farm machinery.

JOHN DEERE: The Quality Name in Farm Equipment

MANAGING THE LAYING FLOCK

Careful observation and attention to the many details involved in handling laying flocks requires patience, fondness for the work and vigilance at all times. Profit or loss is determined by results obtained.

In the management of laying houses, says R. A. Sansbury, Dominion Experimental Station, Saskatoon, B.C. it is essential to provide good ventilation and comfortable temperatures as these are important factors in the health of the flock. Ample roosting space for all birds should also be provided. Feed hoppers should be placed to make the feed accessible and so arranged that they can be filled with a minimum amount of walking. Oyster shell grit should be available at all times. A constant supply of clean fresh water is necessary. A properly installed water system is important in keeping the litter dry. One eight-foot community nest is recommended for each group of 50 birds. Several different kinds of material such as peat moss, straw, sawdust or shavings make satisfactory litter. The type of litter selected for use will depend upon the cost. The litter in some parts of the pen, around the drinking fountain or under the windows, becomes damp. It should be removed and replaced with dry material.

Artificial lighting is necessary to maintain maximum egg production during the fall and winter months. The length of the feeding day should be kept at about 13 hours. Keep a close check on feed consumption and egg production during the lighting period. There is a relationship between the amount of feed consumed and the number of eggs laid.

To secure the most satisfactory egg production a feeding program must be established which will maintain the body, stimulate growth and development, support egg production and encourage maximum feed intake at all times. The weight and condition of the birds should be checked every two weeks. This is best done by checking the flesh on the breast of a few birds in each pen while they are on the roosts at night. If the birds are losing flesh, feed a wet mash daily. A constant culling program helps to maintain low production cost.

SOME HINTS ON BROILER REARING

The aim in rearing broiler chickens should be to get them to market size with the least possible care outlay, and yet provide the necessary care to ensure good quality in the product. Good quality is directly associated with profit, for continued consumer demand cannot be expected when, due to faulty rearing practices, this unsightly birds are marketed.

Perhaps the principal error to be avoided is failure to allow sufficient space for growth, particularly when chicks are hatched early in the year. At the Dominion Experimental Station at Harrow, Ont., says W. F. Mountain, Head Poultryman, records of broiler development show that Barred Rock chicks averaging 14 ounces have increased their initial weight over 30 times within a period of ten weeks. If size increases can be considered relative to weight gained, the number of chicks started should be based on an allowance of two square feet of floor space for each bird. Later hatched chicks will have access to outside runs can do with less floor space, but whatever the time of year, overcrowding should be avoided. Sanitation, which remains an important factor in the control of disease and insect infestations, is difficult to maintain if overcrowding is permitted.

Specially designed broiler mashers can be procured but many farms have home produced feed which aid in reducing costs. Skim milk, if available, should be used. Green feed, either growing in convenient yards or chopped up and fed in troughs, makes palatable supplements, rich in minerals and vitamins. The freshness of feed is also important, for not only do broilers show a keen appetite for freshly mixed mash, but certain properties which fresh feeds contain, tend to diminish in storage.

The emphasis that is placed on the advantages peculiar to each of the more common varieties of poultry, presents a problem to many farms at the time of purchasing chicks. The cockle of some strains may be popular as broilers but some other character of the breed may not have the same appeal. Whatever the breed, once broilers are started it is good policy to endeavour to provide the environment that leads to the production of healthy and attractive birds.

WORMS IN SWINE
Several enquiries have been received by the Live Stock Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture with reference to the use of sodium fluoride for treatment of worms in swine. The treatment is simple and effective but since sodium fluoride is a poison it must be handled with care. Cases of poisoning have occurred where strict attention to proper procedure was neglected.

Method of treatment is clearly outlined in the leaflet "Sodium Fluoride for the Treatment of Worms in Swine" now available from the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Copies can be obtained from District Agriculturalists.

WEED CONTROL

The National Film Board Circuit Programme for July will feature, in addition to the regular programme, a film entitled "Just Weeds" which we feel should be of value to the rural communities. A discussion will take place following the showing of this film and we are looking forward to a good number of farmers taking part. Plan to attend the July N.F.B. showings and bring your "Weed Problem". There will not be any N.F.B. Circuit Programme in August, so lets have a record attendance in July. The July schedule is elsewhere in this issue.

"SAVE THE SOIL" CAMPAIGN

The number of applications to the 1949 camps are rather light this year, and it is felt that this may be due, partially, to the dry season experienced to date. For this reason the deadline for entry has been extended to Saturday, July 31st. There is no entry fee, and you are not obligated in any way, so join now and have your farming practices put on a scoring basis.

WEED INSPECTORS

The local weed inspectors for the Municipal District of Wainwright No. 51 will be commencing duties during the next week, and you can expect these men to be calling on you to locate your weed problem. The full cooperation of every farmer is required to make a success of this campaign. It costs a lot of money to carry out weed inspection, and you, as ratepayers, are paying this money, so in order to get full value for your dollar you must assist these men rather than hinder them. In most cases your weed inspectors are farmers like yourself and they recognize a weed problem.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR CATTLE TO U.S.

Effective from May 9, 1949, changes are being made by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in the regulations which govern the importation into the United States of Canadian cattle.

These changes are concerned with the general health certificate and possible detention at port of entry; with the "tuberculin-test" certificates both for cattle from accredited herds, the herds in accredited areas; and for range cattle. Also covered in the amended regulations are the requirements for brucellosis-test certificates. The regulations for United States cattle returning from exhibitions in Canada are included.

Copies of the amended regulations have been mailed to Veterinarians and Inspectors of Health of Animals Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, to officials of provincial governments, and to cattle associations, to acquaint them with the required changes.

Those shipping cattle to the United States on and after May 9, should be certain that the accompanying certificates are in accordance with the amended regulations.

SEEDTIME AND HARVEST
By Dr. F. J. O'Grady
Director
Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg

On the Control of Weeds
The remarkable success that has followed the introduction and wide use of 2,4-D and other selective weed-killing chemicals in Western Canada in recent years has, unfortunately, diverted far too much attention from the importance and effectiveness of the old established weed control methods. In weed control there is still no good substitute for timely cultural and cropping practices. Furthermore, the planting of good, healthy, treated seed that is free of weed seeds remains one of the most fundamental and soundest principles of weed control. True, 2,4-D and other new chemicals are good supplementary weed-fighting weapons, but they are not, and never will be, a "cure all" for weeds.

Applications of Chemicals. There are four good reasons why western farmers should not depend entirely on 2,4-D and other chemicals to rid their farms of weeds. First, there is always an abundant supply of weed seeds in most cultivated soils. These seeds must be destroyed. Second, certain weeds, Russian Thistle for example, can be controlled more effectively and at less cost by proper tillage practices than by applications of 2,4-D. Third, there is still a large number of important prairie weeds which cannot be controlled by chemicals. Two outstanding examples are Couch Grass and Wild Oats. Finally, unless 2,4-D and other potent weed-killing chemicals are used properly and cautiously, they may do more harm than good.

New Weed Circulars. To meet the growing demand from farmers and grain buyers for the latest information on the control of weeds which today cannot be satisfactorily controlled by 2,4-D, or other chemical substances, Line Elevators Farm Service has recently published two new circulars. One of these, Circular No. 11, is entitled, "Wild Oat Control by Cultural Methods". The other, Circular No. 12, bears the title, "Weed Control by Cultural Methods". Copies of these publications are available, free of charge, to farmers. They may be obtained through local Line Elevator Agents, or from Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg, or Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Jerram, Walter and Arthur were visitors to R. Hiesitt on Sunday.

CANADIAN SEAMEN PICKET U.S. EMBASSY

—Central Press Canadian

Thirty-five Canadian seamen from five strike-bound ships at the London, Eng., docks, picketed the United States embassy in London recently.

One of the strikers is being told, ever so politely, by a British bobby to confine his picketing to the outside of the curb.

The strikers, who are protesting against the U.S. government's "stop American seamen attacks on Canadian seamen," as well as the "stop American gunnery attacks on Canadian seamen," shown here.

Bud Doucette, leader of the demonstration, said the pickets were aimed at alleged A.F.L. interference in Canadian trade union politics.

Moved by Mr. Dixon that correspondence re Health Unit be tabled until the July meeting. Cd.

The following resignations from the meeting, Cd.

Moved by Mrs. McLeod that the Superintendent's report be accepted.

Moved by Mr. Hill that the Dornitory Committee's action respecting summer repairs be approved. Cd.

The secretary was instructed to forward letters of protest to the Provincial Minister of Education, The Minister of Mun. Affairs and the M.L.A. for Wainwright, re any changes in the present educational administration under the School Divisions.

Moved by Mr. Hill that a letter be written to the Secretary Treasurer and the Chairman of the St. Aubin's R.C.S.S. of Chauvin carefully outlining the present policy of the School Division re tuition to pupils attending schools outside of the present schools. And further that our present played a full year in the majors and his 2-2 record in Quebec was far from impressive.

The Brooklyn Dodgers also may benefit if their errant sons return to the fold and come through Mickey Owen, 24, could help them through the rough and Bruce Edwards with the catching chores, while Louis Olmo, 29-year-old Puerto Rican who played under ownership in Venezuela, could help in the batting department. He batted .313 for Brooklyn in 1948.

The player most likely to make a good comeback, however, is former New York Giant Sal Maglie who topped the Quebec circuit with a 7-4 record.

Another ex-Giant, Danny Gardella, said flatly he wouldn't ask for reinstatement to the majors. He also said he would keep up his suit against the Giants and organized baseball for $500,000. He probably wouldn't be much help anyway, hitting in the low 30s while riding the bench most of the time for Drummondville, Que.

There are other outwashed players around who may possibly come thru and prove themselves in the big time.

If they point to their records in the Quebec Provincial League, they won't be pointing to much. The Q.P.L. is about on a par with class "A" Eastern League.

DON'T WASTE HAY

With indications of short hay crops in many Alberta districts, farmers who are faced with a shortage, are urged to use present reserves with care and to make every effort to build up an adequate supply for the coming winter. Those more fortunately situated are advised not to allow a single acre of forage suitable for hay to remain uncut this year.

Cut all the hay you can, urges A. M. Wilson, Farm Crops Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Those who have more hay than they intend to harvest or those who lack adequate equipment should make every effort to have it put up on a custom basis or on a share basis by somebody who can make good use of it.

Better to have a surplus than a shortage. Reserves built up last year by many Alberta farmers were used to good purpose this spring in areas where inadequate pasture growth made prolonged feeding necessary. Farmers throughout the province are urged to build up all the feed reserves possible. There is still time to supplement hay and pasture crops by late seeding of oats for winter feed.

NEW WEED-KILLER SHOWS PROMISE

With the introduction and widespread use of 2,4-D in weed control, many farmers have wondered why some chemical might not be as effective on couch grass and other troublesome narrow-leaved plants as 2,4-D has proved on many of our broad-leaved weeds. This idea has been in the minds of agricultural scientists for some time. Experiments are progressing favorably and some interesting results have been obtained.

One of the discoveries showing promise is trichloroacetic, commonly known as TCA. Tests are continuing but the product is not yet commercially available. G. R. Sterling, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control for the Alberta Department of Agriculture, advises that one disadvantage of trichloroacetic is that it is non-selective—it kills trees, shrubs and herbaceous plants alike. For that reason it will not be suitable for killing weeds in growing crops. When available, its chief use will probably be on weed patches or weed-infested fields where no crops of value are growing. Unlike sodium chlorate, the toxic effect of TCA does not usually persist in the soil for more than ninety days.

This weed killer is not at present available to the public. Commercial organizations are following results of experiments with interest and are awaiting definite recommendations before putting on the market a product for general use.

QUICK DEATH TO INSECT PESTS

STANCO LIVESTOCK SPRAY and 25% Imperial DDT are economical and effective. With these sprays you can end the losses caused by flies and other insect pests.

STANCO is a repellent spray ready to use. Just fill your sprayer and you can treat your cattle, horses and hogs to comfortable days and restful nights. No more terrorizing by flies, no more stampeding. Stanco gives 24-hour protection, is non-injurious to your livestock and does not stain. It more than pays for itself by cutting down milk and flesh losses caused by insect pests.

25% IMPERIAL DDT CONCENTRATE kills flies on contact. It is ideal for use in stables, dairy barns, hog pens and poultry houses. Sprayed on walls and ceilings it ends the fly problem, the menace to health and production. It's economical to use, too. For power spraying you only use 1 part concentrate to 125 parts water, or about 2½ table-spoons in a gallon. For hand spraying you double the strength. For walls and ceilings, a gallon of concentrate makes 5 gallons of spray. It does not stain and is sure to reach every fly and insect that lights on it.

and horticulture will be among the topics considered. Talks and discussions on propane gas and electricity for the rural home have been arranged so that the attendees may have some idea of the facts regarding both. During the session arrangements may be made with the sewing instructors for special individual assistance or for demonstrations to small groups on the use of sewing machine attachments, dress trims, etc. Members of the staff will be glad to show visitors around the school and farm, and to discuss special farm and home problems.

At Vermilion this year, Farm Women's Week will be held from July 11 to July 14th. At Olds, the programme will start on July 25th and will continue until July 28th. Those who desire to attend are advised to make application early. Approximately 100 applicants only can be accepted at each school. Application forms for Farm Women's Week can be obtained from District Home Economists, District Agriculturalists, from the Principals of the Schools of Agriculture at Olds and Vermilion, or direct from the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

FEATHER PICKING MAY BE ANSWERED

Feather picking in laying birds may be a problem of the past for Canadian poultrymen, if long-term experience bears out initial results achieved in tests at the Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont.

Green feeds—chopped alfalfa hay is the most effective tried so far—seem to hold the cure for this vicious habit. Cut in half-inch lengths, steeped in cold water overnight, drained in the morning and fed in shallow tubs, the alfalfa makes a bit with gourmets of the chicken coop, leaving them with neither the taste nor the inclination to pick at one another.

The sleeping overnight is important. If the alfalfa is fed dry, the birds are uninterested. It must be steeped to stimulate their appetites and to get the desired results. Overcrowding, inactivity and lack of bulk in the feed have frequently been identified as contributing to outbreaks of feather picking. But even where these conditions do not exist, the trouble still occurs. Once under way, feather picking leads to cannibalism if allowed to run unchecked.

Green feeds cure the problem by preventing it. Of course, much depends on the quality of the alfalfa as well as the steeping process. Second cutting, or better still, third cutting hay because of its finer stalk is less wasteful than first cutting.

One question still to be answered is whether or not all alfalfa, regardless of the soil on which it is grown, will control feather picking. When they have the answer to that one, poultrymen will know to what extent the problem has been solved.

KEEP THE SOIL ON THE FARM

It takes about 400 years to produce an inch of soil. One heavy rain can undo centuries of Nature's soil making if the rain water is not controlled. Given the opportunity, the soil will be washed into creeks, rivers and out to sea.

The top six inches of the soil is the main natural resource of farming lands the world over. In all too many countries it is being allowed to "run away". Governments are conscious of this soil loss and are spending millions of dollars on drainage, reforestation, assistance in the use of fertilizers and agricultural lime, and on other conservation projects.

But in thinking in general terms, often the particular is overlooked. The farmer who on his own farm diverts what may be only a trickle today, may prevent a steady stream tomorrow. Change a contour grading a water course, planting a few trees—half a hundred small and inexpensive operations—if done in time, contribute to the overall program of soil conservation.

In the final analysis the only asset of a farm is the soil. If the soil becomes unproductive, the farm is useless. The soil cannot be too well cared for, and part of that care is to keep it on the farm.

NAPOLÉON MAY HAVE STARTED IT

The canning industry would probably have arrived without Napoleon, says Miss Edith Elliott, Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, but it's safe to say that he hurried it along. Originator of the military dictum that "an army marches on its stomach," he offered 10,000 francs to any Frenchman who could discover a method of preserving food for his fighting men. A partial answer came in 1809 when Nicholas Appert succeeded in preserving food by cooking and packing in glass bottles with tightly driven corks. The bottles were, of course, breakable and heavy, and to a large extent were unsuitable for the rough and tumble of the battlefield.

Years later another Frenchman, Peter Durand, obtained a permit for making a tin-plated canister for packing food products. But later, when one Thomas Kensell applied for a patent for these tin cans in the United States it was not granted as the authorities considered it a joke. In 1860, however, the manufacture by hand of tin cans began in the United States. In 1878 the first Canadian canning factory was established at Grimsby, Ont.

Machine made cans were soon used but the tops were soldered on. In 1910 soldering was dispensed with and the modern type of can adopted. These are made of steel with a coating of pure tin. Special enamel-lined tins are used where any discoloration of the contents might occur, or chemical action corrode the inner surface of the can.

Today, can and contents must live up to the exacting specifications laid down by Government to protect the health—and also the pocket—of the consumer.

TESTING SEED IS COMPLEX JOB

In the administration of the Seeds Act samples of seed are tested for purity (that is freedom from weed seeds, other crop seeds and trash), and germination or vitality. For making these tests laboratories of the Plant Products Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have been established across Canada.

Many people think it is a simple matter to test seeds; that it consists simply in picking over a sample to find out what is in it, or throwing a few seeds on wet blotting paper to see how many will grow. The facts are not so simple, and many difficult problems arise in the seed testing laboratories for which solutions are needed, says Dr. C. W. Leggett, who is in charge of the research.

Seed testing is a comparatively new science and while methods of testing have been worked out for many of the kinds of seeds a seed laboratory may have to test, there is still a great deal of information needed before entirely satisfactory methods are reached for all kinds. Sometimes, too, when a good method seems to have been worked out for some kind of seed it is found that it does not work equally well with all samples of that kind.

When a lot of seed is to be tested, it is obvious that the whole lot cannot be used; it must be sampled, that is, a sample must be drawn which must be representative of the lot. Whether a sample is representative or not depends upon a number of things such as the way it was drawn, how well the bulk lot was mixed and so on. Further, it is not possible, except by the most chance, to draw two samples which will give identical results of analysis or test from a given lot, so it becomes important to know how much variation can be expected.

There has been some talk lately of chemical methods of testing the germination of seed. These have the advantage, if they prove satisfactory, of shortening the testing time, since the results can be read within about 36 hours instead of having to wait 10 to 12 days. Such methods, however, are by no means perfected yet and they have the disadvantage that, while the results can be obtained much more quickly, each test takes more of the analyst's time than an ordinary germination test, so that the same staff can handle considerably fewer samples.

The June meeting of the Clear Lake F.W.U.A. was held at the home of Mrs. M. S. Herbert.

It has been decided to have a picnic on July 25th at Clear Lake including races, fish pond and supper. Super being 30c a plate including coffee.

Another new member joined. A lovely lunch was served by the hostesses being Mrs. N. Bartlett and Mrs. J. Bartlett.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were received and these present suitably thanked.

A delicious lunch was then served to 23 guests. Mrs. A. Reynolds and Mrs. R. Ganderton poured tea and coffee, assisting the hostesses were Mrs. F. W. Watts and Mrs. W. Johnston.

Those present were: Mrs. P. E. Wiley, Mrs. E. Robson, Mrs. E. Gehring, Mrs. Jack Davidson, Mrs. J. Robinson, Mrs. H. Ward, Mrs. H. Brunner, Mrs. J. Chynoweth, Mrs. B. Leggett, Mrs. B. Buckle, Mrs. G. Democratic living must be practiced from earliest years if the kind of individuals essential to democracy are to be developed; says Miss Christine McIntyre, Home Economics Division, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Young people especially must be encouraged to realize their potentialities—to work out a philosophy of desirable home and family living. To do this they must study and understand the reasons for human behavior—why people act that way. They have to realize the values of home and family not only as individuals but as members of society as well.

TROUSSEAU TEA ANNOUNCEMENT

In honor of her daughter, Mona, whose marriage takes place shortly, Mrs. E. H. Ganderton will entertain at a Troussau Tea at her home, 1137 - 2nd Avenue, on Wednesday afternoon, July 6th from 2 until 4 o'clock, and will be delighted to have her friends and acquaintances call.

well. They must learn to look on home-making with respect. Homemaking should be recognized as woman's unique sphere—a sphere which requires as much intelligence and creative effort as careers in business and the professions.

To have friends, one must be a friend, says Miss McIntyre. If we want people to like us we must like people. "As you would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them," is a rule—many students said this was "the best of all." After an hour's shopping the boys and girls finished a fine day with a swim and picnic at Borden's Park.

What does society expect of an adult socially? He is expected to be self-reliant. He must be ambitious—ambitious to get ahead and be somebody. Instead of imposing on others, he is supposed to be an active contributor—not only supporting himself, but able to support a home and family, and at the same time to accept his share of community responsibilities. Instead of being a self-centered "me-first" type of person, an adult is expected to have balance between himself and others. He must look out for himself, but he is not going to do it at the expense of others.

The development of a real adult, says Miss McIntyre, lies with the home and school. The roots of democracy are in the home where basic character training begins. Let us see that our young people grow into adults in the real sense of the word, so that they may take their place in the world of tomorrow.

An old farmer was complaining bitterly to the minister of the terribly bad weather for the crops, when the latter reminded him that he had much to be grateful for, all the same.

"And remember," said the good man, "providence cares for all. Even the birds of the air are fed each day."

"Aye," replied the farmer, darkly. "Off my corn."

Little Rosalie, a first-grader, walking with her mother, spoke to a small boy.

"His name is Jimmy and he is in my grade," she explained.

"Wait the little boy's last name?" her mother asked.

"His whole name," said Rosalie, "is Jimmy Blaven—that's what the teacher calls him."

"Mamma," asked little Mary, "if I get married, will I have a husband like Daddy?"

"Yes, dear."

"And if I don't get married will I be an old maid, like Aunt Agatha?"

"Yes, dear."

"Mamma, it sure is a hard world for us women, isn't it?"

Rev. and Mrs. G. Steele Are Feted At Farewell

On Monday evening, June 20th, a farewell party for Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Steele was given in the Edgerton United Church. There was a large gathering from town and country. After a social hour consisting of community singing, contests and luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Steele were asked to go forward and on behalf of the members of the congregation and community friends, Mr. G. C. Welsh presented them with travelling cases and a sum of money. This was done as a token of esteem and appreciation of their services during their three years residence in Edgerton—a remembrance and also something to be remembered by.

Mr. and Mrs. Steele thanked Mr. Welsh for his gracious words and their appreciation of the pastoral and timely gifts, of the friendships formed and the fellowship and co-operation they have enjoyed. They would not forget the people of Edgerton and expressed their hope for their personal well being and the progress of God's Kingdom. On Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Boyd, the Rosedale W.A. presented Mr. and Mrs. Steele with a beautiful rug. Mrs. Walter Erickson acted as spokesman and expressed the appreciation of the Rosedale people for the services of Mr. and Mrs. Steele and extended their best wishes for their future happiness and welfare.

Card of Thanks

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Steele wish to express their sincere thanks to all the people of Ribstone, Rosedale, Edgerton and countryside for their contributions which made possible the much appreciated gifts of remembrance.

HIGH-DIVING "EVE" OVER ADAM ISLAND

A new pool designed for aquatic competitions on Adam Island in the Clear river, near Paris, France, was dedicated recently. Here Mady Moreau, French star, is "frozen" by the camera as she made a graceful dive during the opening day ceremonies. Many international swim stars were on hand for the schedule of events that launched the new pool.

WEEVILS AFFECT HONEY CROP

Many beekeepers in Southern Alberta are complaining of serious damage to their main honey plant, sweet clover, reports W. G. McMaster, Provincial Apiarist. This damage will undoubtedly reduce the honey crop of commercial beekeepers this year.

The sweet clover weevil that has been causing so much damage to sweet clover in Southern Alberta that it will undoubtedly cut the yield of honey in many districts.

Damage by this insect has been found as far north as Westlock, sixty miles north of Edmonton though as yet no serious effects are noticed north of Red Deer.

The weevil is small, about three sixteenths of an inch in length and grey in colour. This makes it difficult to see. It usually drops to the ground when disturbed and can be found in the soil near the crowns of the plants. Small crescent shaped sections are eaten from the leaves of the sweet clover plant. So badly are the plants attacked that they frequently do not recover.

A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, advises that this problem is receiving the attention of his branch, and that observations in the field are being made on the effectiveness of various insecticides as a means of controlling this pest.

The sitter was meeting for the first time the little boy she was to take care of.
"Do you go to school?" she asked.
"Nay," said the little tough. "I'm sent."

McLAUGHLIN

Well I guess that by the time you get this paper we will know what government we are having. This last four weeks we have heard more about Old Age Pensions, Family Allowances, Social Security and House Building than we have heard in the last four years. According to what the candidates say, which ever party gets in we will be busy for everything they forgot during the last term.

Things up to now are looking pretty blue for the crops. We have had a few local showers, but not enough moisture to do any good. Some of the fields especially if they are thick are beginning to dry up. It looks like a return to the good old days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Perris, of Langley have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin and took the sports in Harold says he still takes the Chron-icle and sure appreciates the news of dear old McLaughlin. Mrs. Perris has been to California to take treatments for asthma, and that it has really been of benefit to her.

The sports day was a success, but owing to the look of the weather, the crowd was not so large as the previous year. However there were some good games, hot dogs and ice cream. So I suppose everyone was happy in one way or another.

Sorry to hear that Louis Gabrielson has broken one of his fingers. It seems he was playing ball, tried to make a low catch and in doing so his finger dug into the ground and the bone snapped. However, he seems quite happy and contented about it.

The following should have been in last week's paper. But it will interest those who do not live in this district—The McLaughlin team entered the Paradise Valley sports and each brought home money. The baseball team took first, defeating P.V. and Ribstone. The ladies softball team took second defeating Lloydminster and losing to P.V. The school team took second on a by and losing to P.V. in the final.

Mr. Stuart Robinson is enjoying himself vacationing at the coast and points south.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrison are taking their holidays at Banff and other points. They are having quite a good time according to a P.C. sent to me. As you say Ernest, we wish we were there too!

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Colley the Thorson family and friends spent the week end at Fishing Lake. They made quite a nice haul, and according to the fish sent to me they really are fat and in good condition.

At the United Church service last Sunday nine of the district children were baptised. Mr. Morrison of Lloydminster took the service and a large congregation enjoyed the service. Mr. Mullins took the service in Lloydminster.

Fred Hunt, late of this district, now of Edmonton, was a visitor to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ward for the week. The last two days he spent in McLaughlin with Mr. and Mrs. C. Bull. Fred surprised the bright lights of the city.

Evidently the editor doesn't like "Hints to the Lovelorn" as he left them out this last two numbers. Others do like them for what they tell me. One fellow said they made him get married, another says they saved him from that very dangerous situation.

Mrs. W. Howe of Rivercourse and Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins of Leduc, En-gland, were visitors to Mr. and Mrs. C. Bull last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins were paying their farewell visit prior to returning to the Old Country. Mr. Wilkins is an executive on the L.M.S. railway in Leduc according to what they say, they have really enjoyed their visit to Canada, and of the hospitality they have received here, they really can't express their thanks enough. The Rivercourse ladies made a nice gesture to Mrs. Wilkins when they presented her with a... was not to be opened till the... Leicester. The one thing... them most was the... of the country. While here they... monition, Jasper, Calgary and... Mr. Wilkins was very interested in the history and life of the old times and I gave him some interesting stories of the old days. Especially the time when we had to fight the mosquitoes with machine guns as they were carrying all the little babies away. As I know you will receive this paper, I am writing the following true account of one incident that happened in the early days.

It was during those early days when we had been hauled out, frozen out and dried up. Fodder was scarce for the horses—no grain for sale or anything. Most of us had gone in for pigs, we couldn't give them away. The only thing we could do was to put a small pig between two horses and eat him as a sandwich. People were all ready to pull out some of them had their wagons ready packed, when along came a big buzzard and a really early corn that he guaranteed would grow fodder and grain. So most of us invested in enough corn to seed a few acres. Well the seed was sown, then the dry weather came, everybody got fed up and started packing to start off for greener pastures. After about three weeks of this one night they came along one of those good old fashioned electric storms and the rain poured down. Next morning was a real hot day and by nine o'clock the corn was a foot high, by 11 it was in head and by 4 in the afternoon the corn was popping. Yes sir, on the ground was popped corn 4 inches deep. Well, this was all right, the fodder was there all right everybody was happy for the time being. But that was not the end of it for the cattle and horses that were running loose saw the ground all covered with white 6 inches deep, thought it was a blizzard and froze to death. Surely truth is stranger than fiction.

And that boy is just one of the little things we went through in the old days, and you don't forget. Give it males not wheat or oats and don't forget the Leicester Chronology.

They say that jet planes can be run on corn liquor. With corn liquor who wants a jet plane.
